Thursday, October 12. 1704

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Oct. 16.

Rome, September 27.

A Few days ago, a French Vessel arriv'd before Civita Vecchia, with Letters from the Count de Thoulouse to the Cardinal de Fourbin and the Ambassador of Spain. But the Captain owning he came from the Coast of Barbary, from whence no Ships are suffer'd to enter any Port in the Ecclesiastical State, Commerce with that Country being absolutely prohibited, the Governour would not permit this French Vessel to come into the Harbour, nor so much as to send the Letters ashore; whereupon she was oblig'd to sail to Naples, whither she was to carry Letters likewise from the Count de Thoulouse, directed to the Viceroy. The Cardinal de Fourbin and the Ambassador of Spain, receiving Information from Civita Vecchia of what had pass'd, made great Complaints against the Governour; But were answer'd by Cardinal Paulucci in the Pope's Name, that he had done nothing but in Execution of the Pope's Orders: After which they sent an Express to Naples, to fetch the Letters brought by the said Vessel.

Geneva, Oct. 7. The Baron d'Aygallier is come hither with 30 other Camisars, which came with him out of France with Passports in the King's Name. These Camisars, as also several Letters from Nismes, confirm, that Three Parties of Camisars do still keep the Field; and render the Roads between Nismes, Alais, and Anduze very unsafe; And that the Marshal de Villars has been oblig'd to put a good Number of Troops into Nismes, both because he is apprehensive of an Insurrection of the Inhabitants of that Town, and to defend it from the Camisars.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Octob. 16.

Madamoiselle de Soissons, Sister to Prince Eugene of Savoy, is retir'd out of the Town of Aoste into the Pais de Vaux, belonging to the Canton of Berne: 'Tis certain, Cavalier is got safe to Turin, with part of his Men; the rest were oblig'd to escape back to Switzerland, as were also some Recruits which the lesser Cantons had sent to the Duke of Savoy; but they will endeavour to get into Piemont some other way.

The Bishop of Polesna will, at the Request of that Minister, be sent from the Castle of Konigstein in Prussia to Rome. The last Advices from Lemberg, tell us, that the King of Sweden is decamp'd from the Neighbourhood of that Place, and is marching towards Zolkow, with what Design is not known: He is accompanied by the new King Stanislaus. Before his Swedish Majesty broke up from his Camp near Lemberg, he caus'd all the Effects of Value in that Town to be carried off; so that the Inhabitants are left in a miserable Condition.
